BULLETIN NO. 75-5

September 5, 1974

TO THE HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND ESTABLISHMENTS

SUBJECT: Special Analysis of Federal Technical Assistance
Provided to State and Local Governments

1. Purpose. This Bulletin provides instructions for the submission of information required to prepare an analysis of Federal technical assistance to State and local governments.

2. Background. The Office of Management and Budget has initiated and is coordinating a major effort, in cooperation with departments and agencies, to review and assess the scope of technical assistance provided to State and local governments by the Federal Government.

3. Objectives. The objective of this Bulletin and subsequent review of the required submissions is to provide an informational basis for the development of a coordinated Federal technical assistance strategy to improve the management capability of executive officials of State and local government.

Major steps in the development of this strategy are: determining the amount, type and objectives of technical assistance activities currently being provided by the Federal agencies to State and local governments; assessing the impact of present efforts; assessing the need of State and local governments for such assistance; and identifying the most appropriate means for meeting those needs.

This Bulletin is specifically concerned with determining the amount, type, and objectives of technical assistance provided to State and local governments by Federal agencies. The requested information will be analyzed in connection with the preparation of the President's Budget for 1976.

4. Definitions. For purposes of this Bulletin, a technical assistance activity is one whose primary purpose is to improve the capability of State or local government executive officials to effectively manage their programs or provide services to their constituents.

More specifically, this analysis is concerned with that assistance in the form of funds, manpower, or information, which contributes to the improvement of the executive management capability of elected officials and chief administrative officials of State and local governments. Among others, this includes: elected and appointed chief executive officers and their staffs, such as governors, mayors, city or county managers and chief administrative officers; State and local legislative bodies and their staffs, such as State legislatures and city or county councils; and the heads of major program areas or departments, such as a State secretary of health or a city director of public safety. Such improved executive management capability make take the form of improved analytical capability, increased policy level staff resources, or improved management skills.

Technical assistance may consist of funding through grants or contracts, training, seminars, workshops, conferences, technology transfer, research utilization, personnel exchange, on-site Federal manpower assistance, information services and dissemination, and other similar activities.

Technical assistance does not include conventional public information services such as program descriptions and other public relations activities, assistance to individuals, private nonprofit groups or industry, loans, insurance, or other assistance that is not directed toward improving the executive management capabilities of the State and local governments.

Technical assistance that is primarily of interest to functional technical specialists is not to be included under this Bulletin. Examples of this would include highway design specifications or techniques for pollution measurement. However, that assistance to improve the management of broad functional areas such as transportation, general administration, and environment is included.

5. Reporting Requirements. Those departments and agencies which presently provide or plan to provide technical assistance as defined in paragraph 4, will submit by September 30, 1974, an original and 2 copies of the following:

a. An agency summary by appropriation or fund account, to be prepared in the format of Exhibit 1 and in accordance with the instructions contained in Attachment 1.

b. A short narrative in the form of Exhibit 2, for each activity listed in Exhibit 1.

At a minimum, reports will be required from all the departments and agencies listed in Attachment 2. Agencies not having activities fitting the definitions of this Bulletin will submit negative reports.

6. Inquiries. Inquiries, requests for assistance, and the reports required herein should be addressed to the Evaluation and Program Implementation Division, Office of Management and Budget, phone 395-5642 or 395-3870 (code 103).
